

Tom Sherrington

 Make a copy

Insert link (⌘K)

 Live Modelling

 Scaffolding

TOM SAYS

Sometimes, simple is good. Don't over-cook it!

You can combine any WalkThrus you want, in any order.

But don't combine too many WalkThrus.

The documents we make are totally configurable.

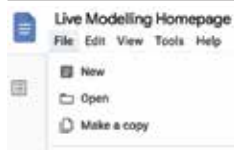

Google is brilliant when you use the headings with links.

That, to me, is the power of the whole suite: I can isolate what you want and remove all the other material.

DIGITAL BOOKLET

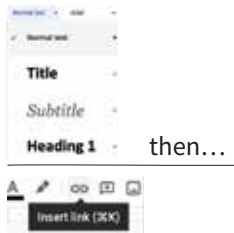

Make them yours

To change the content, you have to make a copy — FILE > MAKE A COPY

Create new links

To link your new content, make the word a heading. Then insert a link.

Changing the content

Select whichever WalkThru and activity suits. Simply use the structure of the template and change its content. Send your copy to colleagues.

DIGITAL JOURNAL

This Digital Journal was created by English teacher, Jamie Clark (of One-Pager fame). You can find it by going to the Googlesite Home Page. Click on Coaches & Trainers tile.

The journal is on a google slide deck. You can edit out the slides you don't want. You can add, or adapt, what you do want to include.

