

The more actively you participate and engage in thinking, the more effective your learning is likely to be.

